Managing Tenders; Contracts & Specifications

Course code: CL176 From: 25-11-2024 Venue: London - Premier inn Victoria Course Fees: 4445 £

Introduction

This highly interactive Tender Management Contract and Specification training course examines how organizations can identify and implement the most appropriate procurement strategies, as well as best practices for developing bid documents, criteria, and ratings.

This training course focuses on the most effective ways to address key contractual liability issues in order to reduce business risk due to cost and time overruns.

This RFP, specification, and contract management training course also includes tools, tips, and techniques for effectively resolving disputes and minimizing business costs and reputational risks. The majority of an organization's costs are spent on procuring goods and services, especially when dealing with global supply chain networks, as most industries and sectors do today. Therefore, applying the best management techniques during the bidding and procurement process and during the execution of the contract is important to ensure the cost of the business and the efficiency of the process.

This training course will highlight:
